

Thank you and farewell from the Tasmania Tomorrow project team

The aim of this regular newsletter was to keep you up to date with what's happening with this exciting initiative.

Looking back over the past issues with the vast range of topics and information that was published, we think this was achieved. We've come a long way since the first issue of Tasmania Tomorrow News on 30 August 2007 which provided general information on what the Tasmania Tomorrow initiative was all about, project timeframes and governance and how to provide feedback and find out more. Subsequent newsletters have increasingly been more informative on progress and developments from the work of the many reference groups, advisory panels and working groups through to policy decisions on sensitive matters such as employee relations.

Through the newsletter we provided answers to frequently asked questions and provided updates on new information such as the appointment of chairs and members of the boards, and the CEOs of the new organisations. We encouraged staff feedback on educational program discussion papers and provided information to staff working with Year 10 students to assist them in educating students about the changes.

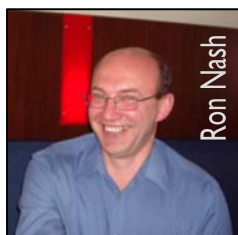

The project has been quite a journey since it was announced in June 2007. We sincerely thank those of you who have provided feedback. It wouldn't have been possible to reach the stage of where we are at now without your valuable input.

The Tasmania Tomorrow Project Team ceases to exist as of 31 December 2008, and the new organisations will commence the next day. Many people have had a role in making that commencement possible, and Project Team would like to acknowledge and thank those people.

Best wishes and good luck to those who will be involved in one or more of the new organisations commencing next year.

Regards,

Tasmania Tomorrow Project Team
